Unique, United Lyrics

Through all our days
We will remember this Community
Of excellence, which is
Drawn from the Muses
And each continent
Unique, united
Masterpiece in motion.
Many are one
Converged through love of art
The head, the hand
And certainly the heart.
Now face to face
And then in memory
Unique, united
Masterpiece in motion.
Vision and courage
To surmount the tests
That come with joys,
With challenges and quests,
Here taught and learned
A circle without end
Unique, united
Masterpiece in motion.

Founded in faith
That it would be the best
A global family
That has been blessed
Built for today
And for those yet to come
Unique, united
Masterpiece in motion.
Unique, united
Masterpiece in motion.

Jackie Maciuszek

B.F.A. BUSINESS OF BEAUTY AND FRAGRANCE

---

Valedictorian

Jackie Maciuszek's passion for beauty as a form of storytelling has shaped her academic and creative journey. Drawn to the intersection of product, branding, and consumer behavior, she approaches her work with both a strong creative perspective and strategic thinking.

Her work explores how beauty can be reimaged through innovation, inclusivity, and evolving consumer needs, blending concept development with real commercial insight. Maciuszek's academic career has provided her with interdisciplinary and industry-driven projects, where she has built a strong foundation in branding, product strategy, and global marketing.

During her time at SCAD, she gained professional experience with the L'Oréal Group, contributing to global marketing initiatives, product innovation, and performance analysis. Supporting large-scale launches, she translated consumer insights into actionable ideas while identifying opportunities for growth across markets. Her experience in both marketing and design has played a pivotal role in strengthening her ability to connect creative vision with real business impact.

Maciuszek was selected to join a small group of students to participate in the Perfume Atelier, a year-long interdisciplinary initiative focused on developing SCAD's first university fragrance. This experience deepened her interest in and fascination with fragrance and its powerful link to memory, inspiring her to create a scent that distills and preserves the essence of SCAD.

Her senior capstone project, Ciao for Now, reimagines the hair removal industry through a skin-first, gentle approach, prioritizing gradual transformation over instant results. Rooted in shifting consumer values, the concept challenges traditional industry standards and messaging, introducing a more supportive, ritualistic perspective on personal care.

Beyond the classroom, Maciuszek brings curiosity, intention, and a collaborative spirit to everything she does, always looking for ways to make beauty feel more inclusive, thoughtful, and expressive. In the future, she plans to continue her career in the beauty industry, developing thoughtful, consumer-driven products and campaigns while quietly working toward launching her own brand.

Owen Boatright

B.F.A. INTERIOR DESIGN

Salutatorian

In 2013, Owen Boatright was rushed to the hospital, where he was diagnosed with E. coli, triggering Hemolytic Uremic Syndrome (HUS), a condition that destroys red blood cells, lowers platelet counts, and can cause kidney failure. Just nine years old, Boatright was hospitalized for 25 days, 16 of which were spent on dialysis. While he does not remember much of his time in the hospital, he clearly remembers the impact that the staff, care, and environment had on him. The experience led to a desire to pursue a career in the health care industry, specifically as a health care interior designer.

Boatright's career has been riddled with challenges, one of the main being his colorblindness, a lasting result of the infection he faced early on. However, these adversities pushed him to adapt, focusing his designs on intricate details, texture, spatial relationships, and user empathy within a space. While at SCAD, he explored various solutions to create spaces that appear similar, but feel distinctly different, allowing each space to serve specialized purposes. Boatright has also mentored underclassmen, participated in informal teaching assistant programs, and served as one of the lead student representatives for the university.

His passion for health care interior design was strengthened through a SCADpro collaboration with The Mayo Clinic, where this team conceptualized safer, more inclusive, and interactive crosswalks for the clinic's Jacksonville campus. After the project, he interned for two consecutive summers with The Mayo Clinic, which culminated in a full-time position. Through each of these experiences, he learned that design is not just about individual work and ideas, but also about engaging with others' perspectives and thought processes to push concepts even further.

As Boatright has moved through his SCAD career, learning from those who have come before him and those who will come after, it has reinforced and reshaped his design philosophy: to be at the forefront of innovation in health care design. He remains committed to that philosophy as he moves into his career, collaborating with researchers and physicians to create specialized environments that support evolving health care practices.

Hardik Kumawat

M.F.A. SERVICE DESIGN

---

Excelsus Laureate

Born and raised in Udaipur, India, Hardik Kumawat's journey is a testament to curiosity, courage, and purpose.

Growing up in a city steeped in culture and tradition, he developed an early sensitivity to creativity while pursuing a rigorous academic path in the sciences.

After earning a degree in geology and life sciences from St. Xavier's College in Mumbai, Kumawat aspired of becoming a marine biologist, but amid the global upheaval of the pandemic, his latent creativity resurfaced, redirecting his path toward design. What began as a self-initiated exploration swiftly evolved into a series of professional opportunities and industry recognition. Determined to formally educate himself in strategic design, he took an 8,000-mile leap of faith across continents to pursue an M.F.A. in service design at SCAD.

At SCAD, Kumawat's journey was defined by meaningful collaborations fostered by SCAD SERVE and SCADpro, including a project with AdventHealth, one of the largest nonprofit healthcare systems in the United States. His impact extended to professional practice through two consecutive internships at the AdventHealth Design Center, where he applied service design methodologies within intricate, sensitive healthcare ecosystems. Kumawat represented SCAD as a student speaker at the 2025 Service Design Global Conference in Dallas, sharing the stage with leading industry voices.

His graduate thesis, centered on optimizing equipment access for nurses, aimed to return valuable time to caregivers and improve patient outcomes. Today, Kumawat serves as an innovation catalyst at AdventHealth, where he continues to advance service design as a vehicle for systemic impact within healthcare. Equipped with rigor, creative confidence, and empathy, Kumawat remains committed to shaping experiences that harmonize people, processes, and purpose.

Mace

The mace has a notable history dating back to the Middle Ages when it was used as a weapon carried by a bodyguard to defend a person of authority. Today, its purpose is ceremonial, serving as a symbol of authority of the university's president, as designated by the Board of Trustees. The mace design for the Savannah College of Art and Design was created in 2003 by a group of faculty, staff, and alumni to serve as a tribute to the creativity, vision, and dedication that define SCAD. Fashioned from sterling silver and reclaimed heart pine from the former Central of Georgia Railway sheds behind Clark Hall in Savannah, the mace acknowledges the past while anticipating the future. The use of sterling silver symbolically celebrates a dedication to education and the arts, while the durable heart pine is a testimonial to the solid foundation of SCAD and its prolific branches of study and development.

Inspired by the seal of the university, the motif of the acorn was selected as an essential design element to represent the concentrated potential for greatness within each member of the SCAD community. The armillary sphere introduced at the apex of the mace connotes the university's global network, while the rosette has nine petals representing the artistic and scientific inspiration of the nine muses. The new mace created for Savannah was handcrafted by SCAD alum Seth Carlson (B.F.A., metals and jewelry, 2007). The mace honors the contributions of all past graduates of SCAD, as well as the bright promise of the class of 2026.
